2. General Information

2.1 Background on Eger, Hungary

The Underwater Hockey European Championships will take place from 21st to 29th August 2017 in the pool of Eger, Heves County - Hungary.

To get an idea of the whereabouts of this 60 000+ inhabitants town in North-Eastern Hungary, - 130 kilometres away from Budapest airport, - please refer to the map below.

Eger with its one thousand-year history, heroic past, rich monuments, good food and unique spa is the second most visited sight of Hungary. The town is a historic place, yet it is also noted for its splendid Baroque architecture, wine, thermal and medicinal waters and lively student population. It became an Episcopal seat as early as the 11th century during the reign of St. Stephen, the state-founding king of Hungary. Disaster struck the town many times. It was practically destroyed during the invasion of the Tatars, but its fortress, built in the 13th century played a major role in the defence during the wars with the Othman Empire when in 1552 Captain István Dobó and a handful of his soldiers withstood the attack of the huge Turkish army. History does not remember that, but the early October snowfall helped the defenders greatly.

The centre of Eger is dominated by its magnificent Baroque palaces, public buildings and of course by the Lyceum. It became an important cultural and education centre in the 18th century. Close to 200 outstanding examples of the architecture of the past few centuries have been preserved in their original forms. The Eger Castle and fortification, castle museum, casemate, Gothic Palace, gallery, the Basilica from 1836, the Archbishop's Palace, Lyceum and its magnificent Library, Observatory and periscope, "Minor" Provost's Palace, Santa Clara Grammar School, Franciscan Church, County Hall from 1756, wrought iron gate by Henrik Fazola from 1778, the unique Sports Museum, "Major" Provost's Palace, County Library from 1722, or the Minorite Church from 1773, the unique in Central Europe Minaret from 1624 the Servite Church from 1752, the Greek-Orthodox Church and Orthodox parsonage are just a few of the cultural highlights of the town. The Kepes Museum, the István Dobó Grammar School, Cistercian Church and Grammar School, the Telekessy Pharmacy Museum with crockery, and Centre for Archbishop's Collection are also among the "must be seen" of the place.

Town and its surroundings are well-known for its wines. For over 1,000 years the population of the region produced grapes and excellent wines, such as Egri Bikavér (Bull's Blood) and Egri Leányka (Maiden of Eger, or the Rizling). The oldest wine-cellars are more than 400 years old (Szépasszonyvölgy), but new ones are carved into the volcanic ash mountains to this day.

Thermal springs were discovered in the 15th century. Since those times Eger is a frequented spa for visitors from neighbouring countries and from faraway places as well. Many public baths were in operation already during the Turkish era. The rebuilt Bath of Pasha Arnaut, or the Turkish Bath, is still open for those seeking treatment.

2.2 "Bitskey Aladár" Indoor Pool

The Underwater Hockey European Championships will be held in a state-of-art swimming pool. The Bitskey Aladár indoor swimming pool is a 50 meters long pool, with width of 21 meters, depth 2,20m., temperature of the water is 28° C ± 1° C, with electronic scoreboard and has 1 700 spectators' seats.

It was built in 2003 and is the most spectacular pool of the country, hosting international swimming competitions, water polo tournaments, as well as many international underwater activities' training camps.

Since 2012 the CMAS Finswimming World Cup has taken place every year in this magnificent pool of Eger.

6. Accommodation

Eger is a major tourist destination. Just like in other countries and tourist destinations in Europe and elsewhere in the world during high season, hotel prices in Eger at this time are higher than published prices, due to the high demand. According to preliminary figures, the European Championships will see around 500 athletes, plus the accompanying fans and family members.

To secure sufficient accommodation options and quality, the Underwater Hockey European Championships organisers have been required to book at least 50% of all the qualifying hotel space. This has been done and hoteliers gave the Championship a most favourable pricing structure, so all teams would have secured, pre-booked, good quality accommodation and superb food. The goal is to satisfy all participants' needs and budgets.

Organisers discourage teams to resorting to direct booking as quality will not be assured, availability in the very last moment could easily be changed and prices would definitely not be as competitive as prices achieved by the Organising Committee of the Hungarian Divers Federation one year before the tournament. For accommodation not obtained through the Hungarian Divers Federation, organisers cannot and will not assume any responsibility. Organisers reserve the right of any change of the conditions and scheduled programme.
